

These social scenarios are designed for use with upper elementary school students. They can be used to work on social and pragmatic skills in the classroom and school settings. You could also use them for generalization of articulation sounds and goals in the conversational setting. They can be used for an individual or small group setting, or for an entire classroom lesson. I have the kids each select a card, read it out loud, and then discuss the scenario. We will sometimes even act out the situation.
