Answering “Why” Questions

“Why” questions ask for a REASON
The answer to a “why” question usually begins with Because or So

(What happened) __________________________________________________________________________

Because

so

____________________________________________________________________________________

(This is the result)

Why?
Answering “Why” Questions

“Why” questions ask for a REASON
The answer to a “why” question usually begins with Because or So

Danielle was sick

(What happened)

Because she was sick.

Why? Why did Danielle stay home from school?

she stayed home from school.

(This is the result)