

Speech Class rules:

Print out, laminate, and post on the wall in a spot visible to the children. I put on the wall by the table we use so it is always visible to the students. I go over the rules and explain the consequences to students the first speech session of the school year. Even the students who can't read or comprehend what they read are able to use the pictures to remember the rules. I reinforce if a rule is broken, but after a while, the students are able to remember the rules on their own.
